When the ballots are counted on the night of May 10, Volusia county will show up for Taliaferro, Davis and Dougherty.

You have only until the 25th of this month to register. And you want to be sure that your poll tax is paid for the years 1902-3.

Attention is called to the announcement of T. L. Rodgers in this issue. Mr. Rodgers is a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner, and it goes without saying that he will be re-elected.

George W. Bristol announces in this issue as a candidate for re-election to the office of Clerk of the Criminal Court. Mr. Bristol has made a competent official and will probably have no opposition for the office to which he aspires.

Hon. Cecil G. Butt, of Orlando, is in the city interviewing some of his friends. Judge Butt is a candidate for State's attorney for the Seventh Judicial Circuit. He has many warm friends in Volusia county, and will carry a large vote in the Democratic primary.

The Board of County Commissioners have for some time been considering the matter of bonding the county for good road purposes, but they are at sea, there is so much diverse opinion. The Gazette-News suggests that petitions be circulated in various parts of the county requesting the Commissioners to take action in anticipation of issuing bonds. Nothing can be a better investment for any county than good roads. A hard road between this city and DeLand is urgently needed. If the county was bonded for a reasonable amount Volusia county could be covered with a network of roads that the taxpayers would never regret.

Port Orange.

Mr. Schroeder has commenced the erection of his cottage, on the lot between Mr. Bradley and T. M. Bangs.

Quite a number of our winter visitors left this week. Among them were Mrs. J. C. Nokes, of Cleveland, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Stockman, of Charlevoix, Mich.; they intend spending some time in Georgia. Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance and their charming daughter also left for their home in Dorrance, Pa. Mr. Dorrance intends building next fall on the lot he purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. James White and their son Phillip and his wife and little daughter left for their home in Ocean Grove, N. J. Mr. White is a popular hotel proprietor there. Dr. and Mrs. Chittie and party also departed. Our village will soon look quite dull.

Mrs. Stockman and Mrs. Nokes, before they started home, gave a farewell card party in Ridgewood Hall. We played progressive euchre till a late hour, then partook of delicious refreshments. After dancing a short time the happy crowd started for their homes, feeling very grateful to their genial hostesses for a delightful evening. Mrs. Tukoy added greatly to our pleasure by playing a number of pieces of oldtime music, and she and Mr. Tukoy also sang several good old songs, which were heartily cheered.

Joseph Ross was in town Tuesday. He is visiting his daughter, Mrs. James Parrott.

"Found, near Tomoka, a pocket-book containing railroad tickets. Owner may have same by proving property and paying for this notice." R. F. TROWELL.

Judge Ibach is making a great many improvements on his Third avenue property, which he recently purchased of Archibald Reid. He is erecting two neat cottages, and has had his residence moved several feet to the west in order to make room for the other houses.

A BRIDE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Mrs. Violet Hubbs, nee Hendricks, of Daytona, Shoots Herself With 32-Caliber Pistol.

Mrs. Fred E. Hubbs, formerly Mrs. Jesse Brown (nee Violet Hendricks), of this city, attempted suicide at 519 W. Henry street, Savannah, Ga., last Friday, by shooting herself with a 32-caliber revolver through the left breast.

Mr. Hubbs came to Daytona several months ago with W. H. Latin, of New York, who had several automobiles entered in the races here. He secured board at home of Mrs. Hendricks, and he and the girl soon became fast friends. Shortly after the automobile races Mr. Hubbs left here for Palm Beach, but was called back by a telegram, and claims to have then learned that the daughter had attempted suicide three times with chloroform while he was gone.

He consented to take the girl with him and marry her, although she had not been divorced from Jesse Brown. The ceremony was performed about three weeks ago by C. S. Norris, a notary public, of Jacksonville, in the presence of witnesses, after which the couple went to Savannah.

Mrs. Hubbs wrote the following note, which was found torn up:

"My Darling Fred:—Do not tell anyone why I took my own life. Say that it was an accident. VIOLET."

Hubbs admitted that his wife had threatened to kill herself a number of times and that he had sat up several nights to prevent her doing so.

There is little hope of her recovery, the bullet having entered just below the heart, the kidneys and lungs being badly injured.

Mrs. Hubbs' brother left here Sunday for Savannah, where he found her case so serious that he summoned Mrs. Robt. Bliven, a sister, who left here Wednesday.

J. CLIFFORD R. FOSTER

Adjutant-General of Florida—A Candidate for Re-election.

Adjutant-General J. Clifford R. Foster, who is now serving the unexpired term of the late Adjutant-General Patrick Houston, and who is a candidate for election at the approaching primary is a descendant of one of the oldest Florida families. His forefathers were among the earliest settlers in this State—coming from Spain—and their names have been identified with much of the early history of Florida.

The present Adjutant-General was born in Savannah, Ga., in 1873, and three years later, upon the death of his father, he came with his mother to her home at St. Augustine, where he spent his boyhood, and has since resided. As a small boy, General Foster attended the public schools of his home city, but at the age of 14 was compelled to relinquish his studies and take up the sterner problem of earning a living, so that his education has been gained solely through the broad school of experience. Always evincing a strong interest in public affairs, and being a staunch and enthusiastic Democrat, he was rewarded by appointment as assistant postmaster of St. Augustine under the last Cleveland administration, before he had attained his majority. At the outset of the memorable political campaign of 1896 he assisted in organizing the Bryan and Sewall Democratic Club of St. Johns County, of which he was made secretary. Later he determined to enter the field of journalism, and purchasing the plant of the Florida Weekly Press he established and commenced the publication of the St. Augustine Morning Journal, a paper which forcefully championed the cause of the people, and was soon recognized as the Democratic organ of St. Johns county. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War he temporarily resigned the editorial chair to respond to the call for volunteers, and, upon his return in 1899, was elected Municipal Judge of St. Augustine, which position he held when appointed Adjutant-General. General Foster's military career dates back fourteen years, when he enlisted as a private in the St. Augustine Rifles. He has served continuously since that time in the Florida State Troops.

The following accused were arraigned and pleaded guilty to the crimes with which they were charged:

Chas. Carlisle to destroying birds' nests. Fined one cent and cost of court.

Robert Hale and five other DeLand negroes to gambling. $2.50 each and cost, which they arranged to pay.

Callis Dasher, colored, DeLand, to assault and battery. $2.50 and cost. Chas. Gibbs, trespass upon personal property. $5 and cost.

John Smith, a Daytona negro, was found guilty of breaking and entering and stealing several suits of clothes from the shop of Thompson the Tailor.

The case of Dr. Trimmer, charged with unlawful collaboration, was thrown out of court for lack of evidence.

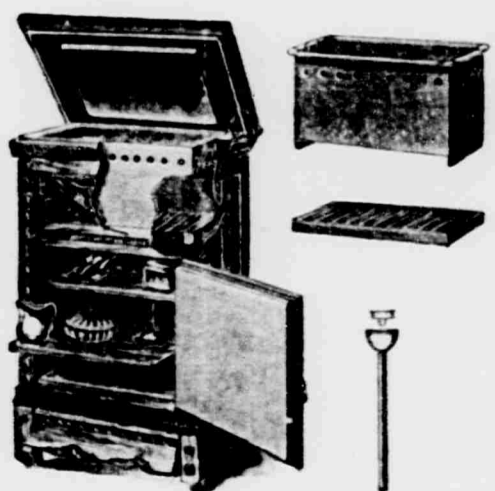

A R. Harper was tried under the charge of cruelty to animals, he having driven a horse belonging to Hires livery stable, Goodall, from which it is alleged the animal died. The jury failed to agree and a mistrial ordered.

McCoy and Shirley, negro boys of Lake Helen, were tried for trespassing and found guilty.

Jim Smith, an Orange City negro, was tried for embezzling from the Standard Oil Co., and the jury returned a verdict of guilty.
